PUBLIC SCHOOL ATTENDANCE IS AT NEW HIGH

Total attendance has reached the unprecedented figure of 562 at Newmarket's public schools. Principal H. A. Jackson told the public school board on Friday evening.

This total, made up of 279 boys and 283 girls, was about 30 more than the usual registration, Mr. Jackson said. At the same time there was one classroom less in operation this year than in the past, with the result that two rooms have 47 pupils, one 46 pupils, and four others have 40 or more.

After discussion the board passed a resolution asking the town council for an additional grant of $300 to cover the cost of another teacher for the balance of this calendar year.

The attendance figures given by Mr. Jackson were: King George school, H. A. Jackson, grade eight, 36; Miss Sprague, grades five and six, 43; Miss Hamby, grades four and five, 47; Miss McPherson, grade three, 40; Miss Campbell, grade two, 42; Miss Graham, grade one, 37. Stuart Scott school, Miss Denne, grade seven, 42; Miss Brammer, grades one and two, 34.

Alexander Muir school, F. L. Hall, grades seven and eight, 37; Miss Graham, grades six and seven, 39; Mrs. Stone, grades four and five, 47; Miss Owens, grades three and four, 46; Miss Rogers, grade two, 38; Miss Haines, grade one, 34.

Average attendance was 529 pupils in September, Mr. Jackson reported.

"Some of these rooms are pretty full," commented Mrs. J. C. Edwards.

"Yes, it is pretty difficult," said Mr. Jackson. "In the lower grades the problem is checking the work."

"We will have to have another teacher next year," said Secretary R. L. Pritchard.

Dr. G. E. Case moved that the board ask the council for $300 to engage another teacher this year. Mrs. Edwards seconded the motion.

"We really need another teacher this year," said L. H. Bovair.

Mr. Jackson said that the classes could easily be reorganized if another teacher were engaged. "The room that was closed in the Stuart Scott school would be opened again," he said.

"Part of grades four and five at the King George school would be moved to the Stuart Scott school. Some of the pupils at the Alexander Muir school would have to come over to the King George school."

"Have we enough coal to heat that room at the Stuart Scott school?" asked Mrs. Edwards.

"We expect to have," said Mr. Pritchard.

Mr. Pritchard said that the over-crowding of the rooms had

Housing Program For Town Advocated At Lions Club

CROWDED HOUSING CON- DITIONS LEAD TO CRIME, VISITOR SAYS

A housing program for Canada, and in particular a housing program for Newmarket, sponsored by the municipally, were urged by District Governor Ernest Houghton, Toronto-Danforth Lions club, before the Newmarket Lions club in St. Paul's parish hall on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Houghton first commended the work of the club and efficiency of the secretary, T. F. Doyle, through whose reports he is kept informed of Newmarket Lions activities.

Mr. Houghton mentioned the Lions park, the Air Cadets and welfare work being carried on "under the leadership of Fred Thompson."

"After this war Canada will have prodigious problems to solve," said Mr. Houghton. "We must put the same energy and self-sacrifice, as General Wavell says, into the peace as we are putting into the wastefulness of war."

"Without plans we may find ourselves facing chaos worse than the war itself," said Mr. Houghton. He said that there was agreement on the necessity for a system which would provide employment for every citizen, "decent homes, sufficient food and proper education."

In the records of Lions welfare work, and in the men who have done this work, would be found "practical experience and not theoretical."

"Take the matter of municipal planning up with your municipal council, and ask to be allowed to be associated with them in planning a post-war program," Mr. Houghton said.

Mr. Houghton said that many "vermin-infested houses" should be torn down, instead of being fixed up with government assistance during this war, and new houses built elsewhere.

"I understand that in rebuilding in the old land first consideration is being given to the amount of sunshine available, and a reasonable amount of land is being provided around each home," Mr. Houghton said. "Slums are a cesspool of crime, which the police tell us is on the increase."

"These shacks must come down," said Mr. Houghton, urging that members of the club acquaint themselves with housing conditions in their own town. "Just picture the case of a family of six living in a house with two bedrooms, no inside plumbing, beside the railway track and with little backyard."

"A housing program would provide not only physical, moral and spiritual benefits, but also employment."

"We are looking for a great leader to lift us, while within ourselves lies the very capacity to lift and lead."

President Fred Thompson thanked Mr. Houghton for his address.

CAN TAKE PREVENTIVE STEPS AGAINST POLIO

By DR. J. H. WESLEY, M.O.H.

As this is the time of year of most cases of infantile paralysis, a word of cautious advice may not be out of place. Many well-conducted investigations have been carried on in Canada and the U.S.A. and much has been added to our knowledge of the disease, and yet there remains much to be learned.

The specific organism has been found in many places, as, for instance, the stools of persons suffering from the disease, they have been recovered from sewage, they have been found attached to the body of the common housefly, they have been found in the throat of those suffering from the disease, and yet their mode of entrance to the part of the body where they get in their deadly work remains unanswered.

Yet from the foregoing we are able to carry out certain definite valuable methods of prevention of the disease. We should be taking all possible prevention measures.

First on the list is the greatest care with our milk and water supply, pasteurization of all milk and chlorination of all disputed drinking water. People using dug wells should have a sample from all such wells at the beginning of August and have it analyzed, and all wells showing class "D" water should be filled in. People should avoid the use of outside toilets as far as possible. They should be used only in conjunction with lots of lime every day.

The common housefly is a menace in many ways, and it is only a very unsanitary housekeeper who will permit house room for a single fly. While the weather is favorable for an epidemic of poliomyelitis, it might be wise to postpone a tonsil operation, for any break of the mucous membrane of the nose or throat is a potential portal of admission to the microbe.

Much interest by the medical profession and the public at large has been taken in a radical change in the treatment of infantile paralysis by an American nurse, Sister Kenney, and the Ontario department of health has arranged to make early treatment available in certain selected centres, where adequate hospital facilities are available, for a limited period of time without cost to the patient or municipality.

Just one more word, there is no known cure for the disease, not even the formerly much sought after convalescent serum.

PARTRIDGE COSTS $6.50

Crash! A pane of glass about four feet by four feet was shattered when Mrs. C. R. Insley hurried into the dining-room of her home at 42 Millard Ave. to see what had happened, about 5 p.m. on Tuesday of last week.

"Surely something hit it," said Mr. Insley when he came home shortly afterward, and looking under a chair he found a large partridge, which had crashed through the pane to its death.

"It was delicious eating, but expensive at $6.50 for the new pane," said Mr. Insley.

YOUNGSTERS COMPETE AGAINST STANDARDS

Newmarket public schools field day, to be held on Friday afternoon at the Stuart Scott school grounds, is an experiment.

The preliminaries have been taking place during the week. Every pupil is given a chance to participate, and instead of participating against each other the pupils compete against age standards. Each pupil who makes the grade wins a ribbon.

After Vice-Principal Fred L. Hall of the Alexander Muir school explained this plan to the public school board on Friday evening, the board decided to give four prizes of $2.50 each in war savings stamps, to the junior and senior boy and girl who beat their respective age standards by the greatest number of points.

Senior pupils are those in grades five to eight.

Trustee L. H. Bovair was particularly pleased with the plan and made the suggestion that the board should give prizes. Vice-Chairman Frank Bothwell, who was in the chair, gave his hearty approval to the unanimous resolution and commented that "they will have a lot of fun."

The finals program starts 1.30 p.m. Friday.

While Mr. Hall's standards provided for boys and girls up to 15 years of age, he remarked that this year "we have no pupils 15 years of age in the public schools."

CLOSES STATION

Due to ill-health, "Bill" White is closing his service station indefinitely. He expects to be in hospital in Toronto for some months.

Maternity Wing Will Be In Memory Of Late Margaret Davis

Bed Capacity Will Be Increased By 50 Percent, General Facilities Will Be Improved Same Time

"During the past two years facilities at York County hospital have been taxed beyond capacity and the directors have realized for many months that an expansion to the present facilities was necessary if the hospital was to continue to serve the people of the community in a satisfactory manner," it is stated in an important announcement on behalf of the hospital board.

"While the hospital has modern equipment it does not have sufficient space to properly accommodate all maternity cases and it was in this department that overcrowding was most evident.

"Learning of the conditions which existed in the hospital a short time ago, Aubrey, Andrew and E. J. Davis, Jr., took the matter under consideration and by their generosity offered to donate a new maternity wing in honor of their mother, the late Mrs. E. J. Davis, to be known as the 'Margaret Davis Memorial' with capacity for 23 extra beds together with delivery suite, nurseries and other facilities, including plumbing fixtures, heating radiators, pipe, etc. and electric wiring, costing approximately $50,000.

"Architects have been consulted and plans drawn and submitted to the provincial department of health, who have approved the plans on condition that the other facilities of the old building such as the dining-room, kitchen, furnace room and elevators, etc., be altered to accommodate the expanded bed capacity of the institution, which with additional equipment and furnishings for the new wing will cost another $50,000 approximately. This cost will be the responsibility of the board and a finance committee will be named by the board to arrange for the necessary finance and it is hoped the necessary amount can be raised and on hand before building operations actually start.

"The board is relying on the generosity of the citizens of Newmarket and district, who in the past have always supported every worthy project to lend every assistance to make our hospital one of the best in Canada. The leadership shown by the Davis brothers in this connection is outstanding and warrants support from all of our citizens to complete the enlarged hospital without resorting to mortgage or bond issues.

"The Office Specialty Mfg. Co. Ltd. have already subscribed $5,000 toward furnishings, equipment, and alterations, having learned of the contemplated building program. This is also a very generous subscription and shows the attitude of our people toward the hospital.

"Shortage of help in homes and the advent of group insurance have resulted in new demands for hospitalization and in view of this greatly increased demand on facilities of the hospital, the board of directors has approved plans for the new building, which will increase the capacity from 34 to 57 beds.

"Plans have been approved and permit issued by the department of munitions and supply and it is planned to proceed with building operations at the earliest possible date."

Fire Inflicts Big Loss On Holland Landing Family

QUICK FIRE TAKES FRAME HOUSE OF FRED HOLLINGSHEAD

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hollingshead, Holland Landing, was consumed by fire on Monday afternoon about 5 p.m.

Mrs. Hollingshead was in the garden at the time picking up potatoes. When she noticed the fire, the flames were already eating up the frame house. It is thought that the fire started in the chimney. The house was partly covered by insurance.

Nothing could be done to save the house or its contents as the fire had too much headway before it was noticed. Mrs. Hollingshead lost all her money and her ration books.

SEE APPROACH

The combined canvass of Toronto welfare agencies which has just taken place raises the question, in these days of changes and impending changes, whether welfare projects should be dependent on a voluntary canvass or whether the needed money should be raised by taxation. If government were to raise the money, then sooner or later government would set up its own agencies to spend the money, and we wonder whether government agencies would be as efficient or as friendly and helpful as private agencies. On the other hand, with so many private agencies there are undoubtedly some duplicative overhead costs.

There is not as much poverty and hardship outside of cities as there is within them, but there is still a good deal. Newmarket, for instance, has poverty and hardship even in times of so-called prosperity. People are able to live comfortably, dress and eat reasonably well, and yet they may not have enough money for tonsil operations, operations to straighten children's eyes or limbs. They may have enough means to have bad teeth extracted, but not enough to have them replaced. They may think that they cannot "afford" to see a doctor when nature is warning them that there is something the matter but they are still able to carry on and "get by."

There is a more systematic effort to uncover child physical defects in a progressive city like Toronto than there is in town and rural areas that lack a public health or school health service. Annual physical examinations by doctors and dentists, periodic check-ups by school nurses, and public health clinics give city residents a chance to learn what defects their children have. In many instances parents are able to have teeth and eyes and tonsils looked after themselves provided that they know the defects exist. Some cities not only uncover the defects but help the parents to remedy them. In other cities less well-to-do parents are more dependent on welfare agencies.

Town and country people are on the average said to be more independent, but they are also, as a result of the lack of free physical examinations in the schools, less conscious of the defects from which their children suffer. Annual examinations at the schools of children's teeth and eyes and hearing, and their entire physiques, would bring to the surface many remediable defects which the parents themselves could afford to look after. They would also bring to light many defects that parents could not afford to look after. And there should be a systematic community effort to take care of all those children whose parents needed full or partial money help.

That part of the job should be done by trained social workers; people who would know how much and how little help should be given and how it should be given, in order to build not only child health but family self-respect and pride. And the money to do the job could be provided either by an annual canvass or by municipal taxation.

Some of our enterprising rural townships have undertaken municipal dentistry. The township or the school section pays for dentistry for all school children, regardless of means, and collects the money through the mill rate. That is an encouraging start, but the service needs to go farther to include, in addition to extractions and fillings, restorative dentistry, and then still farther to include optical and medical assistance. The schools must build not only healthy minds but also healthy bodies.

While we chart further advances for our progressive townships, we should in fairness point out that they have already gone ahead of our towns, Newmarket and Aurora, which do not provide school children with any kind of dental service, not even dental examinations at the beginning of each school year. But times are changing, and before long the towns may be leading the way, providing complete physical examinations, public health nurse services, and free remedial and preventive dental, optical and medical care. Promised provincial assistance with education costs will enable all municipalities to widen their jobs to include physical as well as mental education, physical health as well as mental health.

SPEED THE VICTORY

Starting the day in a cold house some of these October mornings is not pleasant. We may even go so far as to think that life is hard, but

Italy declared war on her former ally, Germany, on Wednesday. United States and Britain have announced that Italy will be granted "co-belligerent status."

Portugal has granted the British the use of the Azores in the mid-Atlantic as air and naval bases for the protection of merchant shipping.

A force of tiny British submarines, a "secret weapon" up till now, entered the Nazis' naval hide-out base at Alten Fjord, Norway, and left the German battleship Tirpitz badly crippled. The tiny submarines attacked the battleship below the waterline.

we soon remember the boys who have been living outdoors or in ill-heated quarters overseas for a year, two years or three years and more. They must get homesick at times. We can all help, in a small way, to bring them home by subscribing to the coming Victory loan. As Mr. Churchill said this week, the bombing of German industry—and that costs money as well as lives—is helping to win many a land battle.

"MAKE-DO" BREAKS DOWN

In order to keep down the demand for new goods, there should be every facility for repair of old materials, whether clothes, lawn-mowers, farm implements, automobiles, or electric stoves. The recent announcement that some synthetic rubber would be released for "recapping" tires was an official recognition of the importance of repairs. Replacing tires will keep many cars going and prevent an increased strain on public conveyances.

Our national planning should make more provision for repairs. It is one thing to tell people to save fuel by putting weather-stripping on their doors or by putting their windows or by buying storm-windows, and it is another thing to get someone to do one of these jobs. Even to get someone to put on storm windows is a problem. To employ a carpenter to make changes or repairs that would save fuel is an accomplishment.

It is one thing to tell people to save fuel by taking down the pipes and cleaning them and the furnace. It is another thing to employ a man who knows how to do this job. And when essential electrical equipment breaks it should be possible to buy new parts, but not only are parts not available but you couldn't employ an electrician to do the job even if you could get the part. Of course you can get a new tube for a radio, but you can't cook anything at the receiving end of a radio. Don't try to get a new switch for an electric stove.

GIVING TEACHERS A CHANCE

Newmarket public school board is to be commended for taking action toward appointment of an additional teacher to the staff as soon as possible. Even after the appointment of another teacher, the staff will be only the same size as it has been in previous years but the attendance will be about 30 more than in those years. Really, to give the teachers a fair chance, there should be a classroom opened in addition to the one to be reopened. A teacher with more than 35 children to look after has her hands too full with checking work, finger-nails and ears, and keeping order, to do any teaching or to undertake educational "projects."

A PROGRESSIVE PROPOSAL

Mr. B. A. Trestrail, who spoke at the Newmarket Victory loan meeting in Newmarket last week, is launching a movement to reform and humanize industry so that there will be a check in the popular swing toward the C.C.F. In speaking of it as non-partisan he no doubt means that it is neither a Liberal nor a Progressive-Conservative movement. Mr. Trestrail wants, on the one hand, to give private enterprise a chance to make enough money to warrant expansion and, on the other hand, to offer sufficient "reform" to satisfy the public demand for a better deal for the common man. He speaks of "the preservation of individual enterprise linked with an ambitious profit-sharing program."

No one should feel critical of Mr. Trestrail, though many may feel that he has undertaken an Herculean task. How can he expect industry which has not yet accepted trade unions to accept profit-sharing? Trade unions operate on the annoying assumption that workers have an equal stake with management and ownership in an enterprise and that the workers have a right to say how much return they shall get for their contribution. Profit-sharing should mean about the same thing, except that workers, through their own elected directors, would expect good dividends when the company was able to pay them and none when it was losing money or barely breaking even.

That involves access to the company's records and balance-sheets, information which an increasing number of firms already share with the public. Mr. Trestrail will do a lot of good, but progress sufficient to check the growth of the C.C.F. will require legislation which many business men won't like. The Toronto Globe and Mail says of the proposal: "Its implementing will require sponsorship by one of the nation's political parties." Not a few business men have gone ahead of Mr. Trestrail and are backing the C.C.F. to forestall "something worse." And of course every business man who goes into the C.C.F. makes that party less likely to do away with private enterprise.

Of People And Things

SERVICE

By Isabel Inglis Colville

There never was a time, I think, when the word "service" loomed so large in our vocabulary or had so many meanings.

We have the three branches of the armed services, we have the chaplains, the doctors, the nurses, the ambulance corps, the Y.M.C.A., the K. of C., the Red Cross and the Salvation Army. We have the war workers, men and women doing every sort of job that a nation at war needs.

We have the I.O.E. and the Women's Institutes adding war work to their other activities, or rather putting war work first. They all serve.

But there is another kind of service which is not so spectacular and yet without which our national and domestic economy would fail to function with any sort of smoothness.

I suppose that this sort of service is so much a part of our daily life that we do not appreciate it—we accept it as a sort of due, and would be and are sadly aggrieved if it fails to function, with punctuality, courtesy and with exactly what we want when we want it.

Nearly every day someone comes to our door, serving us. And this is the question—how do we receive them? Are we considerate, courteous and helpful? Do we ever put ourselves in the place of these people who, in all weathers, manage to reach us with the various items we consider necessary for our house-keeping and home-making?

I heard of one man who arrived very late at one home, delivering his commodity. He was asked why he didn't come earlier, and his reply was enlightening.

"Wouldn't I like to," said he. "I have a home and would like to spend my evening there, but I am out to serve and people aren't always considerate. Sometimes they don't know what they want, and the price doesn't suit them, or their purses are put away so securely that they can't find them."

The Wm. Cane and Sons Mfg. Co. are enlarging their store-room by the addition of another large shed on Huron St., opposite the lannery.

The market was cleaned out the quickest last Saturday for some time. Butter went up to 24 cents and eggs to 16 cents.

Workmen commenced tearing down Water St. bridge on Tuesday morning and at noon on Wednesday very little of the old structure remained. The contract was given to W. J. Hill, Toronto.

While threshing at T. Cunningham's, Holt, a time test was made with W. E. Rutledge's machine and it turned out 60 bushels of oats in seven minutes. The new hose tower has a coat of paint.

Father Morris is adding a conservatory to his residence.

The T. B. Wakefield home-stand on Second St., East Gwillimbury, containing 90 acres, and better known as the "Howard bush" was sold last week to the Fardy family of Newmarket.

NORTH GWILLIMBURY

CROWD IS TREATED TO HOT DOGS AND COFFEE

The proceeds of the North Gwillimbury Red Cross dance in the township hall on Friday evening, Oct. 8, will be given to the committee in charge of the overseas boxes for boys in Newfoundland and those in the navy located at either coast. Names and addresses must be given to Mrs. C. Grant or Percy Mahoney not later than Oct. 21, which is to be the packing date.

Harry Horne generously helped the committee under Mr. and Mrs. W. Davison when at the sale on Oct. 6 they were left with a supply of hot dogs and coffee. Mr. Horne treated the entire crowd and the society thus took in $30.

The sewing and quilting days at the township hall will be Oct. 21 and 22. Those attending will bring box lunches and their portion of tea.

"Sometimes I have to go to my truck two or three times for something they THINK they'd like."

"What a life," he concluded, "but someone has to do it, and customers aren't all like that; some it's a real pleasure to serve, and if they'd all think a little, and know exactly what they want, my work would be a pleasure."

And haven't we all stood in a shop and watched a clerk bring out article after article, only to be told, "I don't think I'll bother today?"

Perhaps if that person had stood all day with tired feet and aching back, they would have a fellow feeling, know exactly what they wanted and speak to the clerk as to a fellow being, not as a sort of underling, who hardly rated courtesy.

Milton said "They also serve who only stand and wait." There's a lot of that sort of service being done these days and if anyone thinks it's easy, let them experience it.

Ask the mothers and wives, the children and sweethearts of the men overseas if waiting, for they know not what, is easy.

It would be a great deal easier if they were near their loved ones, even in the danger zone, so long as they could be busy and hope to see them sometimes.

It's the waiting, the uncertainty, the dread of the unknown, that makes the service of waiting one of the hardest. We all serve in some capacity or other. Do we do it gracefully, even joyously, or do we make our service a burden to ourselves and others?

We who serve our households have so much to make us happy and contented. Our land is free from enemies—it is a goodly land, flowing with milk and honey—even if the honey is rationed. It is a picture of autumn beauty just now, and we have everything needful to make service a fine and gracious thing. Can we meet the challenge?

TO THE EDITOR

"Just a line to let you know I've been on the move again—this time ending up in Newfoundland," P.O. Bud Benville writes in a letter to The Era and Express.

"Our last trip was a rough one but on the whole everything was O.K. I'm in the best of health and hope to meet up with a few Newmarket lads if they are unfortunate enough to find a spot out here."

"Met Bud Denny, O.D., in Halifax just before we sailed and just missed Mickey Smith when he returned from leave."

"We have plenty of entertainment and the Newfoundland folks treat us swell."

A postscript says: "They use the dogs here as harness horses."

Editor, The Era and Express: At present there is a dire need for personnel to supplement the nursing service, both in military and civilian hospitals.

The week of Oct. 4, St. John Ambulance Brigade is holding a campaign to recruit V.A.D.'s (Voluntary Aid Detachment) for military hospitals, and nursing aids for civilian hospitals. Military hospitals are draining the resources of nurses from our civilian hospitals, and it is urgent that the supply of V.A.D.'s be replenished.

From St. John Ambulance Brigade is not immediately before matters get worse. The age limit for a V.A.D. is 18 to 44 years; she must be medically fit; be a British subject and have no dependent children. A V.A.D. may apply for duration of the war for service in Canada or abroad. A V.A.D. may relinquish her appointment if, after finding she likes nursing well enough for her life's vocation, she is accepted for training in a recognized school of nursing. It is a good trial ground while gaining experience and giving vital service to the war effort.

The St. John Ambulance Brigade has training centres in Canada where a recruit may take concentrated first aid for home nursing courses, following which she is called for her probation course of three months at a military hospital. Her allowance starts at the beginning of the probation period.

One not qualifying for a V.A.D., if in good health, having First Aid and Home Nursing certificates, two years of high school at least, and from 18 to 55 years of age, may nurse as a voluntary nursing aid for full or part time in civilian hospitals, which include sanitarium and pensions hospitals.

Hot Royal Highness, Princess Alice, opens the V.A.D. campaign over the radio on Oct. 4 from 5.15 to 6 p.m.

NAVY LEAGUE ASKS HELP IN FILLING DITTY BAGS

For romance, action and thrilling adventure, "White Savage," which plays Monday and Tuesday at the Strand theatre, easily heads the current procession of movie hits. The Universal picture, and a major achievement in the realm of entertaining screen successes, stars Maria Montez, Jon Hall and Sabu, the sensational trio of the unforgettable "Arabian Nights."

Distinguished players in the supporting cast are Turhan Bey, Sidney Toler, Thomas Gomez, Don Terry, and Paul Guilfoyle.

Photographed in glorious technicolor, the film has for its locale, a sun-swept South Seas island. Miss Montez portrays the fabulous native princess who rules the island. Hall has the role of an intrepid shark hunter. He wishes certain fishing concessions and the love of the glamorous princess. Of course, he gets what he wants; but not until a conspiracy is thwarted and an earthquake nearly destroys the island paradise and its inhabitants.

Picturesque highlights of the film include native festivals and rituals while underwater swimming sequences performed by Hall and Sabu are graphically thrilling.

Miss Montez, more alluring than she appeared in "Arabian Nights," is outstanding in her role of the emotional ruler, and her wardrobe, featuring the newest variation of the sarong and called the "sheerong," is a definite innovation.

"White Savage," an original story by Peter Milne, was dramatized by Richard Brooks. Lester White and William Snyder were the cameramen.

Arthur Lubin, recognized as one of Hollywood's top movie-makers, was the director and the picture was produced by George Waggner.

YOU WILL MAKE MONEY

If you are going to have an auction sale, set a date that will make it possible to advertise it thoroughly. You should have a notice of the sale in The Era and Express and in neighboring weeklies. Publishing the full sale list in The Era and Express is more effective and cheaper than having a few posters printed. And whether posters are used or not, the full list can be published advantageously in The Era and Express and other weeklies that are within reasonable travelling distance of the sale.

Suggestions Are Given For Perennial Border

(By Rudy Renzius, Newmarket Horticultural Society)

A well arranged perennial border is a perpetual delight. It starts flowering in the early spring with snowdrops and primulas and continues until frost kills the last Japanese anemones and asters. The finest conditions for planting, transplanting and seeding both perennials and some biennials exist in October and even early November. If it doesn't get extremely cold.

Transplant to permanent positions seedlings raised in your cold frame. Divide, for instance, Sweet Williams now instead of in the spring. Delphinium clumps that are getting old will, if divided, yield numerous strong plants, worn-out hollyhocks will regain their youth if planted in a different position.

Always keep the height of the mature plants in mind when transplanting. Tall plants at the back, medium tall plants in the centre and short and creeping plants at the front and edge. Rockplants are very useful edging plants.

Many perennials can be raised from seed sown at this time or up till freezing. They lie dormant all winter, but germinate in the early spring. Some seeds do not germinate for two years so it is a good plan to put your nursery beds some place where they can be left undisturbed for that long.

Seed beds do best in the shade, not too close to big trees, which take all nourishment. A fairly good soil is desirable and it should be worked up fine and pulverized. Be sure it is well drained.

Now your seeds as the information on the package tells you, press down seeds well, cover with burlap bags and do watering, if any, through the bag until in the spring, when the plants appear above ground, remove bags.

Mrs. J. Davis were calling on Mr. and Mrs. O. Stickwood on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Ross Boyd, Billy and Louise, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Boyd and Barbara, Orillia, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. S. Boyd.

Mrs. Mary Rolling and Mrs. H. Longhurst and Betty, Mount Albert, visited Mrs. S. Boyd on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Armour and Bill and Mr. Trent, Toronto, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. A. Dike.

Miss Ruth Brenair, Toronto, spent the weekend at home.

Miss Phyllis Pegg, Newmarket, spent Tuesday at Mr. Pegg's.

Mrs. Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Broderick spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Williams, Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Tansey, Shirley and Adele, Toronto, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Brenair. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tansey, Menford, were calling on friends on Monday.

RAISE £600 BY SALE OF USED POSTAGE STAMPS

The following letter was received by Miss Zilpah Lavender from Sir Denis L. Daley, lord mayor of London:

"Very many thanks for your letter of July 27 and the splendid gift of used stamps which accompanied it."

"I know it must mean a great deal of work to collect so many stamps, and I can assure you that your efforts are very much appreciated. The stamps we have received since this scheme was started have all been sold and have raised over £600, so that you can see the idea is well worth while."

"Please accept my grateful thanks for all the help you have given towards this grand total."

SAYS GOLDEN RULE IS STILL GOOD BUSINESS

"Treat the other fellow the way we like to be treated ourselves," is the business code of H. M. Hooker, secretary of Newmarket

Retail Merchants' Association.

"Too often we fall down in applying the golden rule in business," said Mr. Hooker this week when asked for his suggestions for the good of Newmarket as a business town.

"The golden rule should be applied not only between merchants but by merchants toward their customers," Mr. Hooker said. "No matter what conditions exist, merchants must be courteous to the public. If any one of us is discourteous, that hurts the town and hurts us all."

"Trying to oblige people is one way in which the smallest business can hold its own with the larger stores."

Mr. Hooker thinks that the business people of the town should make the problems of their customers their own problems, and that they should do what they can to better living conditions in Newmarket. He believes in spending money on education and health facilities, but he thinks that the money should be raised and administered by the province.

APPRECIATE RED CROSS PARCELS, SAYS ARMAN

The following is an interesting excerpt from a letter received by Mrs. Bud Fisher, Keswick, from her brother, P.O. O. W. Fonger, who is overseas:

"Incidentally, I've intended writing you about the Red Cross comforts in this station," he writes. "I had been wondering just when we would come in contact officially with the good work of the Red Cross. It happened about two weeks ago. We were told to report to the office of the padre at station headquarters."

"There we were given a very warm welcome and led to a store-room filled with the regular Red Cross cases. Each contained its particular article of clothing and we were given our quota and our names struck off the list."

"I came by two pairs of flannel pyjamas, a pullover sweater, flying socks, a pair of lighter socks, a scarf and two pairs of knitted gloves. I could have had a quota of cigarettes but I smoke so seldom that they probably wouldn't have stayed fresh."

"Now these things are most useful items, especially the pyjamas and the pullover—things which one normally just doesn't get over here—and it would do your heart good to hear the warm words of praise our boys have for your organization for making them available. The reason for the delay in giving them to us is that they are items which will be most appreciated on ops—our next phase."

"I should really have written this note of thanks to the Canadian Red Cross, but thought possibly some of the people who do the real work might like to know how much it is appreciated. No doubt the many letters of thanks they get at headquarters are filed away and you people actually get to know very little of what our reactions are. Anyway hats off to you all and many, many thanks."

EXPECTS TO SEE FAR EAST ONE DAY TOO

The following interesting letter was received by Mrs. S. C. Sheppard, Holland Landing, from Pte. Percy Deavitt, who is with the Canadian army overseas. Pte. Deavitt says:

"Some two months ago I received a parcel from the Sharon Red Cross and one of the much appreciated articles in it was a lovely pair of home-knit socks. As yet I haven't worn them, as I always like to have a new pair on hand. Last week I was looking over my kit, getting ready for my nine days leave which I am getting next week. I took the Red Cross tag off the sock and in the toe I found the slip of paper with your name on it."

"I must apologize for being so slow in finding it and not having dropped you a line sooner. I want to thank you very much. They are a lovely pair of socks, so nice that I am not wearing them for every day but am saving them for special wear while on leave, weekends, etc.

Road accounts: fuel oil, $27.95; repairs, $49.03; telephone accounts, $17.04; stamps, $3.50; gravel crushing, $340.05; trucking gravel, $554.95; weeds, $1.60; superintendent, $115.

The next council meeting will be in Sharon hall, Oct. 30 instead of the first Saturday in November.

"The boys sure appreciate woolen home-knit socks, so easy on the feet when walking around in big army boots. Your address, Holland Landing, looked so good to me, as my home is in Sharon. You possibly know my mother and dad, as they live across from the garage in the cream stucco house."

"We have had a very nice summer over here, but now autumn seems to be here. Where I am stationed, living conditions are quite good and meals not bad. Handy to London, I usually spend a day in London most every week, my day off. I am planning on spending part of my leave in Scotland, Glasgow and Edinburgh, and part with relatives of ours on the south coast of England, so will be travelling quite a distance and seeing a lot of country. I am looking forward to going abroad and seeing the far east as well.

"You ladies of the Red Cross are sure doing a good job. The boys over here certainly appreciate the parcels that are being sent."

"Mother sends me The Newmarket Era and Express. So I keep well posted on the news."

Unexpected

A golfer had lost his ball, and not unnaturally, was inclined to be annoyed with his caddy. "Why didn't you watch where it went?" he said angrily. "Well, sir," said the boy, "it don't usually go anywhere, and so it took me unprepared like."

Add New Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash Pellets To Poultry Diet: Increase Egg Production!

SAVE TIME AND LABOUR!

● Pellet feeding as a supplement to mash is proving a boon to many poultrymen. And has proven extremely important in maintaining uniform egg production, uniform egg size, and a thoroughly nourished bird, because it can be used to keep feed consumption at a uniform level. When water consumption drops mash consumption also drops and egg size and egg production usually suffer! By feeding Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash Pellets you can depend on getting the regular amount of mash into the birds. Even when birds suffer from colds and nasal troubles and are not able to take mash, they can keep adequately nourished and throw off the trouble quicker, when fed Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash Pellets. Another advantage of pellet feeding is that it saves time and labour as compared with wet mash feed! Tests at The Quaker Oats Company's experimental farm have shown a wonderful increase in egg production with Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash Pellets as compared with straight dry mash feeding! Investigate this new means of making more egg profits today! Ask for full details.

Assessor's Salary Is Reviewed By Council
A letter from Assessor B. W. Hunter received by the town council last Monday evening requested increased remuneration. The request was referred to the finance committee.
The letter said: "In returning the 1943 assessment roll I regret that I again find it necessary to call your attention to the very small emolument that you have granted me in past years for the immense amount of work entailed in performing the duties of assessor.
"This is the seventh year that I have done this work for the town and yet only on two occasions have I received a slight bonus, but when I was appointed I was promised a salary commensurate with the duties involved. This year the duties have been very materially increased on account of the many property changes, this coupled with the fact that during the past few years you have granted increases to all the town employees, including the part-time auditors and town clerk, whose duties do not require nearly so many hours of work and are not very much more important to the town welfare.
"So that I feel that it is quite within my rights to again place this matter before you, and I humbly ask that you give this matter your serious consideration."
"I think that there is some justification there," commented Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales.
"What is the assessor's salary?" asked Councillor Frank Bowser.

"Time To Deliver One-Two Punch," Says Aubrey Davis

"We have placed on our shoulders that is greater than any placed on our shoulders in any previous campaign," Aubrey Davis, Newmarket, Victory loan chairman for North York, declared at an organization meeting at Pickering College, Newmarket, on Friday evening.

"We are not going to complain," he said. "The need for funds is there. The war must be carried to a final and successful conclusion. We have to put our shoulders to the wheel to put over the fifth Victory loan. The crucial time in the defeat of Hitler in Europe is before us. How close it is to us, no one can tell. The man who gets up and tells you that the war will be over before Christmas is, I think, a wishful thinker.

"The greatest optimist at the time of the fourth Victory loan would not have prophesied the progress the Allies have made since then. The Axis powers perhaps might be said to have the jitters. They know they can't win."

Mr. Davis outlined the improvement in the Allied position at sea, and in the air, and said that Allied land forces in the various arenas of war had dealt the Axis nations "staggering blows. I think they're off balance. Anyone who knows boxing knows that when your adversary is off balance that is the time to give him the one-two punch.

"While the task is greater, personally I feel greater confidence in the outcome of this loan than I did of any of the previous loans."

Mr. Davis then called on George Mitchell, Willowdale, new member of the legislature for North York, who said that it had been the history of the British empire for centuries to be unready for war.

"It has taken us four years to be in a position to administer the knock-out punch of which Mr. Davis speaks," he said. "None of us knows how long it will take. It may take a year or it may take 18 months. We owe it to our boys who go out and do the fighting to give them the best equipment available."

"Are we kidding ourselves?" was the topic of an address given by Rev. Henry Cotton, Newmarket, a former R.C.A.F. padre during the war and an airman who was twice shot down during the last war.

"The man who kids himself along, who puts blinkers on, who refuses to face all the facts, is a liability rather than an asset to himself and to the nation. As we open this fifth Victory loan, it is quite pertinent in my judgment to ask: Are we kidding ourselves?"

Mr. Cotton quoted German generals, now prisoners of war in Britain, interviewed by Berkeley Baxter, Canadian-born British journalist, as saying that this war will last ten years.

"Let me hurriedly say that I don't believe it, but let me also add what Mr. Churchill recently said, 'Despite all the good news, the bloodiest portion—make no mistake about that—of this war for Britain and the United States lies ahead of us.'

"United States army leaders declared two weeks ago that while the German high command has abandoned expectation of victory (and this is good news), the Nazis' combat strength is greater than four years ago, and they will wage a desperate struggle to stave off outright defeat.

"We kid ourselves into believing that the Russians have sapped the Nazis' strength. We forget that 8,000,000 Germans have reached military age in the past five years.

"Major-General George V. Strong, U.S. chief of military intelligence, told a conference of industrial and labor leaders and newspaper officials recently that the Germans now have three times as many combat divisions as they had at the time of the invasion of Poland. The Allies' main advantage lies chiefly in their ability to produce weapons.

"At the same time General Strong discounted the possibility of an early collapse of Japan and warned that the Japanese power will grow steadily as long as they retain virtual control of east Asia. Japanese resources are tremendous and the morale, both at home and in the army, is excellent.

"Why do I stress the toughness of the Germans and the Japanese? Why does Mr. Churchill warn us that the bloodiest portion lies ahead? To rouse us out of our complacency, to keep us from over-optimism, to let the home front know the facts that victory is not just around the corner, that men fight, bleed, die whilst we kid ourselves that it is nearly all over but the shouting.

"A former member of the German Reichstag, speaking at the Toronto Canadian club on Monday, said, 'It is quite possible that Hitler will fight in the streets for every city in Germany.' We know what is happening in Italy. Less than one-tenth of a Nazi army is fighting us there. It's a long, long trail to Berlin and Tokyo.

"Only yesterday from the ministry of information, London, I culled this sentence from the Bishop of Southwell, 'We do not know when the end will come, or what price we may yet have to pay but just because things are so much better we need to be faithfully reminded that the turn of the tide may be the real danger point.'

"Any relaxation of effort now may prolong the struggle for years.

"Home front morale is of supreme importance. Constantly before the minds of our leaders from Mr. Churchill down is the possibility of breaking German morale, principally by bombing. As Mr. Churchill said, it is worth trying. And this is exactly where the fifth Victory loan comes in.

"I was tremendously impressed by the cost of bombing Hamburg alone. Can anyone here give the answer? Three hundred and eighty-five million dollars. To give Berlin a comparable dose the estimated cost is two billion dollars, to say nothing of thousands of gallant air crew who are paying the price.

"Major-Gen. Gatehouse, Britisher, said Thursday night that in a successful tank battle in which Rommel lost 700 tanks that the U.S. forces had 22 tanks emerge intact out of 156.

"In the battle of Sicily, lashing out at this foolish, childish over-optimism, U.S. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recently said that the conquest of Sicily, merely an outpost of the fortress of Europe, cost the Allies material losses ranging up to 54 percent.

"Foolish, childish optimism is criminal. In Italy we have 400 miles to go to the German border, with the Germans fighting every inch of the way. And when and if we conquer the whole of Italy we will still be nowhere conquering Germany. We will still have a long way to go.

"Let's quit kidding ourselves. Let's ditch our complacency, stop our spending spree. Like our brave men and women in Sicily and Italy, our gallant airmen, our courageous sailors, let's put everything we have into this fifth Victory loan.

"In his Harvard address, Mr. Churchill in closing said: 'Let all who are here remember that we are on the stage of history, and that whatever our station may be, whatever part we have to play—great or small—our conduct is liable to be scrutinized not only by history but by our own descendants. Let us rise to the full level of our duty and of our opportunity and let us thank God for the spiritual reward He has granted for all forms of valiant and faithful service.'

Telling the Victory loan salesmen how they could do their job successfully, B. A. Trestrail, Toronto business man, who developed the "employee plan" of purchasing Victory Bonds at the John Inglis Co. and was then lent to the dominion government to take his sales plan from coast to coast, said: "If you do this selling the right way, these people will thank you in a year's time for having persuaded them to buy bonds.

"You must tell the people that you are selling them something that is not only of vital importance to the war effort but something that may be of even more significance for our post-war effort. These bonds constitute a real cushion in the event that all our other post-war planning fails."

Mr. Trestrail advised the salesmen that they should realize that the prospect is able to buy, that he will buy and "if you don't sell him somebody else will," and also that if the prospect doesn't buy it is the salesman who has failed.

Major Alex. A. MacKenzie, Woodbridge, Progressive-Conservative candidate in North York in the past provincial election, expressed the thanks of those present to the speakers and to Mr. Davis for having arranged the evening.

Gathering the Sport Facts

Did you know that there are fellows on relief in these war days, who are drawing anywhere up to $12,000 per year? That is if the relief they provide is satisfactory to their bosses.

Listening to the World Series on Monday gave us this idea for a story. Relief pitchers were plentiful as far as the Cardinals were concerned. Yet very little attention is paid to their exploits. Nearly every major league baseball manager openly states that no pitching staff, however well it may be equipped with strong arm curvers, fireballers or knucklers, is just as strong as its quiet relief specialist.

He's the fellow who sits in the bullpen all day, sometimes he works, at other times he doesn't. His job is to step into the game when the situation looks bad. Perhaps he succeeds in quelling the opponents' rally. On many occasions he fails.

If he is a success, the manager will go down in history as a master-mind. But, if he fails, the second guessers start right in to criticize and right away the manager is a bone-head. It doesn't matter which way the score goes, the part the relief chucker played in it is entirely forgotten.

One of the most successful relief chucks to come up to the major leagues in the past 20 years was a husky six-foot Oklahoman who had been pushed around the minor league trails for six years before the Yankees decided to take a chance on him in 1927. His name was Wiley Moore and he was over 30 when he first came up to the majors.

He was in 50 ball games that year, but he started only six. He won 19 games and saved at least that many more, yet his name was never written in bright letters. He never had seen the big leagues when he came up, but he had great courage under fire. He also had a sinker ball that broke down sharply as it got to the plate.

It was almost impossible to hit the sinker anywhere but into the dirt. That's where a good relief man wants the ball hit because in that way runs are cut off at the plate and double plays are made. Wiley soon knew all the bullpens of the American League by heart.

In 1927 Ty Cobb was finishing out his career as a member of the Athletics. The first time Moore had to pitch to Cobb, the Yankee board of strategy loaded Moore down with all the dope on how to throw the ball. But Wiley had his own way of beating Cobb. Every time a batter would come to the plate Wiley would walk over by the Athletic dug-out and holler, loud enough for everyone to hear,

"Now don't forget to let me know when this guy Cobb comes up. I've never seen the lug before."

When Cobb did take his turn at bat, he was steaming in fury. Moore then proceeded to strike him out on three sinker pitches. The next time Cobb came to bat the Yankee board of strategy again started to tell Moore that Cobb would drag a bun down the first-base line and if he tried to field it Cobb would cut his fingers to ribbons.

"Well," said Moore, "if he does, it will be the last bun he'll ever drag, because I'll snap his head off with my bare hands." Cobb never dragged the bun, nor did he get a hit that day. As a fitting reward for his great relief that year the Yankees let Moore pitch a World Series game which he won 4-3.

Moore lost his effectiveness after that first year and gradually drifted from the big league scene.

One of the most daring relief jobs of all time was turned in by Burleigh Grimes, manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs. This was back in 1923 when Burleigh tolled for the Pirates. Two men were out and two were on bases when Burleigh came in to pitch for the Pirates against the Brooklyn Dodgers. The first batter he faced he deliberately passed in order to make a forced play on any base. Then he tossed three straight balls to the next batter.

Another ball would force the winning run home. But the other ball never came. Burleigh tossed three straight strikes at the batter. Right after the game Grimes revealed that he had thrown the three balls to the batter on purpose. He had a theory that a pitcher with good control works better when he is in a tight spot and he proved his theory.

Right now Johnny Murphy of the Yankees, Mace Brown of the Red Sox or Ace Adams of the Giants would look strange in any place other than the bullpen. Adams is the best known relief artist in the majors today. Perhaps his fame comes from the fact that this year he broke a record by appearing in 69 games for the Giants.

One of the great relief artists was asked how he liked the job. His reply was "what difference does it make where we play as long as the club wins and we're of some help to it."

That, in a nutshell, sums up the attitude of these work-horses of the diamond. It's pretty thankless work but the good relief pitcher thrives on it. But, unfortunately for all good relief men, they seem doomed to a life in the bullpen. They may never get their fondest wish. A chance to start.

Emphasis On PRECISION

The ordinary optical lens often provides good sight, although it does not always combine this with eye comfort.

All the desirable qualities needed for eye-comfort are present in Corectal Lenses. Finest optical glass is precision ground to exacting specifications, and polished to a fine high lustre, resulting in a lens which gives clear sharp vision right to the very edge.

Eye-comfort and good vision go hand-in-hand when Corectal Lenses are prescribed. Enquire about them when you have your eyes examined.

Spring Bulbs Should Be Planted In October

(By Rudy Renzius, Newmarket Horticultural Society)

October is the best month for sorting out your favored bulbs for an early spring garden. Tulips, narcissus, hyacinths, crocus and snowdrops are some of the most common.

Some of the smaller bulbs are difficult to obtain this year, such as snowdrops, crocus, grape-hyacinths and scillas. They used to come from Holland and our homegrown B.C. small bulbs are not produced in big enough quantities to go around. Not so with the bigger bulbs. Here we can draw from Great Britain, B. C. and Bermuda.

No other plants give as much for so little care as bulbs. Dig a hole in the ground, drop in your bulb and you are assured of a spot of color in the spring. I don't recommend this procedure, however. Take good care when planting bulbs and you will be rewarded a hundredfold.

Dig your bed deeply, if possible two spades deep. Dig in some rotted manure or bone-meal, not next to the bulbs but around them. The bulbs themselves are better off if surrounded by sand, peatmoss or leaf-mould. The roots will soon find the fertilizer.

Tulips, daffodils and hyacinths should be planted no less than three inches deep. If you want later blooms or are planning an annual garden on top of and after your bulbs have flowered, plant them still deeper, six to eight inches. Bulbs like good drainage, getting "wet feet" will decay them.

There is no danger of making the soil too rich for bulbs, but it is sound practice to do the manuring the previous season. After planting, and before winter sets in, cover the beds with a good dressing of leaves, five to six inches deep, held down by brush, manure or earth.

Four men in evening clothes were standing on a railroad platform in Montreal recently waiting for a train. Convinced they were from frequent visits to tap rooms. Joyously they were telling tales to each other. "All aboard!" shouted the conductor. Three of the men boarded the train leaving the fourth on the platform, roaring with laughter. "What's the matter with you?" demanded the station master. "Why all the gaiety?" "Those three men came to see me off," the inebriate replied.

In Memoriam

Baile—In loving memory of our mother, Florence Baile, who passed away Oct. 20, 1939.

Just when her years were brightest
Just when her life was best,
She was called from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.

Always remembered by her children, Marjorie, Frank and Ted.

Doane—In affectionate remembrance of a dear wife and loving mother, Susannah (Strasler) Doane, who passed away Oct. 16, 1939. Sadly missed by Dad and Elva.

Lawson—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Merceda J. Lawson, who passed away Oct. 12, 1937.

It's six years since you were taken,
My own dear mother mine,
No one sweeter ever has trod
On life's rough line.

But God took mercy, mother,
For the storm of life was rough.
So He saw fit to take you
To your happy home above.

'Tis the tribute of love and remembrance
To a mother, one of the best
The joys that you missed on life's highway
May you find in God's garden of rest.

Ever remembered by husband and family.

Smith—In loving memory of our dear Kenneth, who passed away Oct. 16, 1936.

Somewhere beyond the shadows
Dwells a dear sweet son of ours,
Whom we looked on as a treasure,
Whom we cherished as divine.

But God called the one we loved away.
Forgotten you, dear Kenneth, no we never will.

As years roll on we miss you still,
The blow was great, the shock severe.
We little thought the end was near,
It is only those who have lost can tell.

The sorrow of parting without farewell,
But God is good; He gave us strength
To bear our bitter cross,
He is the only one who knows
How bitter is our loss.

Ever remembered by mother and dad.

Smith—In loving memory of my dear brother, Kenneth Smith, who departed this life Oct. 16, 1936.

His faint last wish I should like to have heard,
And breathed in his ear one last parting word.

Only those who have lost are able to tell
The pain of the heart in not saying farewell.

Sadly missed by brother Emerson.

Inquest Ordered In Two
Death Railway Accident

One of the worst tragedies in the history of Aurora occurred at the C.N.R. freight yards on Friday when two railway employees were instantly killed and crushed almost beyond recognition as a heavy railway derrick boom fell as the men were unloading steel rails from a flat car.

The two men were Alex. Crawford, 52, Parry Sound, and David L. Dukes, Bridgewater, N.S. The flat car was pulling into the local yards to allow a northbound train to pass and had just reached the siding when the accident occurred. The brakes, it is thought, failed to hold the derrick boom in place. The boom started to waver as the car slowed down and then crashed downward on the men beneath before they had any opportunity to leap to safety.

The crane had been lowered to allow the train to pass under wires over the siding. Workers at the scene were helpless to aid their comrades.

A postmortem was performed by Dr. L. W. Dales, Newmarket, and an inquest has been ordered by Coroner Dr. C. J. Devins. County Constable Aubrey Fleury is in charge of the investigation. The flat car was travelling in front of the derrick boom and the two men were sitting underneath.

"The men were instantly killed," Coroner Dr. C. J. Devins told The Era and Express. "It was one of the worst accidents I have seen."

For some days past the railway crew have been working in the vicinity of Aurora unloading rails and making track repairs.

Share Basis, Protects Kids

By a vote in committee, with only one member dissenting, Aurora town council instructed Town Solicitor L. C. Lee, on Tuesday night, to draft an agreement between the municipality and Leslie Beazer, former manager of Toronto Ravina rink, now a resident of the district, whereby Mr. Beazer will operate the Aurora arena this winter on a profit-sharing basis.

The agreement will come before the council for final approval at its next meeting.

"We arranged for an agreement to be drawn whereby Mr. Beazer will operate the rink this winter," Councillor Fred. Rowland, chairman of the property committee, told The Era and Express. "Public and high school pupils will receive the same privileges they had before, and a regular operation schedule will be drawn so that full use of all available hours will be made. The town's interest is being fully protected and it should work out satisfactorily for all concerned."

Last year, according to figures submitted by the town clerk, A. C. A. Willis, the rink showed a deficit of $156 after paying all expenses, including debenture charges. One of the items to be covered in the agreement will be lighting charges, not hitherto considered an expense. After Jan. 1 the town's electric department will be out of the hands of council and administered by the new Hydro commission to be elected in January.

SPENT HALF CENTURY OF LIFE IN AURORA

The death occurred on Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Keast, Thornbury, of Mrs. Mary Ann McCloskey, who until a year ago had resided in Aurora for over 50 years and was one of the town's best known residents.

Mrs. McCloskey had been in ill health for the past few years. She was a member of Trinity Anglican church here. Her husband, the late James McCloskey, predeceased her about 40 years ago.

Funeral service was held today at P. M. Thompson's funeral home, with interment at Aurora cemetery. Surviving are four daughters and four sons, Mrs. James Dean (Nellie), Toronto, Mrs. George Keast (Maie), Thornbury, Mrs. William Buffan (Lena), Meaford, Mrs. George Teasdale, Jr. (Laura), Aurora, James, Winnipeg, Arthur and Gordon, Providence, R.I., and William, Windsor.

ANDREAN RUGBY TEAM
IS HANDED 6-0 DEFEAT

University of Toronto schools handed St. Andrew's College seniors a 6-0 defeat at the local school last Thursday in an exhibition rugby fixture. U.T.S. have most of last year's team on hand and the Andreans, who are rebuilding this semester, gave a good account of themselves.

The feature of the game was a three-down stand on the one-yard line by St. Andrew's. Don Bark scored five of the visitors' points while Errington was the pick of the local school boys.

Salvationist Dies,
Mrs. J. H. Cornthwaite

The death occurred in Toronto on Saturday of Major Mary Louise Lewis Cornthwaite, wife of Major John H. Cornthwaite of the Salvation Army, at her residence, 73 Hocken Ave.

Major Cornthwaite was in her 67th year and had been in ill health for some months. In 1942, in company with her husband, she came to Aurora from Timmins, where the couple had been engaged in Army work for many years.

She was seldom out of her home, however, but won the friendship of those Aurorans who met her. Last May the family moved to Toronto on Major Cornthwaite's retirement.

Surviving are her husband, one daughter, Miss Ada Cornthwaite, and a son, Bdr. Robert Cornthwaite, on active service with the artillery.

The funeral service was held on Tuesday from the Albert St. Temple, Toronto, to Mount Pleasant cemetery. Several members of the Aurora citadel attended the service, which was conducted by high ranking Army officials.

INTERRUPT WORK
Owing to inability to obtain the pipe necessary, the contract or engaged by the municipality to drill a new well for the town has stopped work for a few weeks. Already down about 300 feet, a flow of water has been obtained which the contractor believes will prove satisfactory when the pipe is obtained and the drilling continued for a few more feet.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Mormie Mann, who as a skinny kid of 17 years sprang into hockey fame as a member of the late Turk Doyle's Paris Intermediate club which won Intermediate O.H.A. honors in 1930, and the next year came to Newmarket, where he won his way into the hearts of canal-town fans who saw him lead the Redmen to a dominion title in the 1932-33 campaign, is now on active service with the Canadian navy and will play his hockey this winter for the jolly tars of H.M.C.S. York in the O.H.A. senior series.

Mann was born in England in 1913, played senior hockey in Toronto after amateur days were done and in 1935-36 was signed by the Toronto Leafs, only to be farmed out to Syracuse. He never did display the form in professional ranks his amateur record had led the fans to expect. Since that date he has made a few spasmodic appearances in the big-time but mostly in the minor leagues with Syracuse, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Last winter with the Hornets from the Smoky City he finished third in American league scoring and this season would have been a cinch to find a niche in the N.H.L. Now a greater game has called him.

We cannot be definite about all the boys, but we believe that Mann, Don Willson, Aub. Marshall, Mac Ogilvie and Howie Peterson of the dominion titleholders of that date are on service. If anyone has information to the contrary we should be pleased to know.

"Scotty" Mair, who is an instructor at the Toronto naval centre, and defenceman Sandy Milne, are the only holdovers of last year's navy team. But Pick Hines, who has been appointed coach, has some pretty fair material to work with, including Hugh Barlow of Hamilton whom the Leafs tried to sign last year, Joe Klukay of Stratford juniors who finished the season with the Leafs, "Red" Garrett of Marlborough, "Red" Gilbert of Research, and George Gee, who played junior for Owen Sound against Aurora Tigers a few years back and last season with Kansas City.

"Billy" Wilson, dark-haired Newmarket boy who starred with Aurora and Young Rangers, is either at sea or at an east coast port, we hear, and George Mara, who played for Upper Canada against both Aurora and St. Andrew's College and last year was an ace for the tars, is now stationed at Halifax. Not a single player of the navy team which played against Sutton in the intermediate finals two years ago is around. They all are at key posts.

Orchids to the silent service for the way the sports are conducted. With practically an all-star collection of footballers on duty at Halifax not a single player has been transferred to Toronto to help their struggling football team in the O.R.F.U. and they need help too. It was the same way in hockey last winter. Valuable performers were shifted, as their turn to move elsewhere came. Recently in football an already strong service team reached out and borrowed a couple of players from another service. Public opinion as well as howls from the other teams forced them to drop them. So in a day when most of the idealism is gone from sport we doff our hats to the game tars. One sports writer just about hit the nail on the head when he said: "Idealism in sport went out with the poke bonnet and the bustle."

Tommy Myers, former Newmarket Redman and maestro de sports at Pickering College, has been turned down for active service because of a foot and leg injury sustained a few years back and he is once more back on the job at the campus on the hill and this year is making his debut as a football official and doing a good job too.

Bill Babcock, president of the boys' athletic society at Aurora had one of the better track, basketball and soccer players at the school, sustained a broken wrist last week which will prevent him mingling in sports for some months. Bill went to kick a football, missed, topped it, slipped and tried to break the fall with disastrous effects.

Pete Donkin, ace speedster of Aurora Juniors, who turned down a professional opportunity with Eddie Shore at New Haven a few years back, is posted at Esquimalt, B.C., with the navy now and if he plays hockey at all it will be there. Pete, a polished performer, didn't play much last year due to an operation. Only thing he ever lacked was enthusiasm. If you could get him riled he would really fly.

At Winnipeg, wearing three stripes now and debonair as ever, is Frank Michalek, line-mate of Pete and one of the most popular imports ever to hit Aurora. "Mitch" is with the R.C.A.F. and right now is stationed in his home city. The Ukrainian lad lacked ruggedness in hockey and often condition but he had both brains and ability. At softball he had few peers as a third-baseman and was also a dangerous hitter.

Out west, at Regina, is parked Bill Griffith, who won senior track honors at Aurora high school last year and broke the record for the 220 yards in so doing with a nifty 22.5, as well as cracking the half-mile mark in fast time. Griffith was a natural athlete and was just as good at basketball. Hopes to be in aircrew action in the near future.

Across Canada at Scoudouc, New Brunswick, with the birdmen is Pete Dillman, sorrel-thatched netminder for Newmarket Redmen a few years back and one of the best "club" players we have ever met, being satisfied to take the bitter with the sweet and either play or sit on the bench, a thing most of the boys won't do.

"Joint" McComb, former Aurora-Sutton-Ordinance sniper and pivot man of three O.H.A. championship teams and two semi-finalists in a six-year stretch, is also in the Maritimes somewhere, we understand. Last reports said Windsor, N.S., but the grapevine reports are that McComb will be back in either Kingston or Toronto for action on the hockey front this season. Understand "Joint's" old hockey injuries will not let him make the trip across the pond, something he desired to do a few months ago when we last saw him.

Jimmy Emmons, who played some fine outfield for Aurora Depot this past summer and then underwent a serious operation, is convalescing nicely at Oakville and was able to spend Thanksgiving in Aurora. Hopes to be back on the job soon.

Charlie Nesbitt (corporal), a quick check-up of the lists shows, is the only one of last year's speedy Redmen from No. 23 B.T.C., Newmarket, in camp, ready to start the hockey season. Exelby of course is also available but he didn't play much last year.

But don't let it worry you, for Jack McDonald, the soldiers' coach, is still on hand, and already one or two aces in the hole being pulled out, and his weather eye is as good as ever. So Camp Harkness will probably be heard from again.

Lieut. Mac Craig, one of the best players in the league last winter, is still at Orillia camp, we hear, along with Wainman Beaudin, Curran and Rome of last winter's team from No. 26, which gives the northerners a fine nucleus to start with. Craig is worth two ordinary performers himself.

"Sonny" Kitchener, former Kleinberg goalie, overseas with Royals and wounded at Dieppe, is training to be a sniper, according to latest word received from across the pond.

Marj. McCannan did herself proud in the ladies' softball finals and in her second season in fast company finds herself on a championship team. While her batting over the season was not as potent as last year, it lacked nothing when the chips were down. The big store team to which she belongs was about the only top-place team except Bowser's of the Davisville circuit to finish the season on top, and that includes our own boys from No. 3 C.A.C.T.R., who failed in the stretch after a regular season of 22 wins and a single loss.

Jack Dyte, former Barrie Junior, is receiving a trial with Chicago Blackhawks right now and is likely to stick, from all accounts. Dyte has also been playing senior football with Oakwood Indians.

"Chad" Bark, diminutive speedster who played lovely hockey and rugby for U.T.S. against both St. Andrew's College and Aurora and then played softball for Newmarket camp briefly, and for our black head boys, having received army permission, is now scintillating in the rugby realms for Talmy Beach, who needed a tonp the worst way.

WHITCHURCH

WHITCHURCH PRAISES TOWN COMMANDOS

Joe Sheridan appealed before Whitchurch township council on Saturday for compensation on 19 geese, a rare flock, killed by some animal unknown to him while on the Coultham farm, 3rd concession, north of the Aurora road. Several of the big fowl were presented as an exhibit, and showed teeth marks all over the frames.

"It was not done by a fox, I know their habits," declared Mr. Sheridan, who was of the opinion that a police dog was responsible.

The loss will run around $75, but councillors said they could not compensate the owner of the geese, since their authority to pay compensation, according to the Sheep and Dog Act, covers sheep and cattle only.

"We sympathize with you and would be glad to give compensation if it were in our power," declared Reeve Geo. Leary.

Mr. Sheridan wanted the matter of the right to pay referred to the township solicitor, and the council promised to submit the matter to J. D. Lucas.

Councillor Edward Logan submitted a resolution offering the hearty thanks of the people of Whitchurch to the farm commandos in Stouffville, Aurora and Newmarket for their splendid help last summer during the harvest period and labor shortage. Deputy-Reeve Lorne Evans seconded the resolution, which carried unanimously.

The clerk was instructed to have a by-law prepared posting rewards for killing wolves, foxes and skunks within the boundaries of the municipality. The bounty on wolves will be $5 per head, foxes $2 and skunks 25 cents per snout. There will be necessary safeguards in the by-law, so that animals may not be brought in from other places to claim the bounty. The compensation, of course, will be payable only to residents of the municipality or to those holding a hunting license for the township of Whitchurch.

D. J. Aitchison, Lemonville property-holder, offered a sharp complaint against the manner in which the ditch opposite his property was cleaned by the road men. The letter was placed on file.

Clerk Crawford reported road expenditures paid at this meeting to total $4,337.89, bringing the total spent on roads thus far this year to $14,500, leaving a good margin for late fall.

The sum of $37.50 was ordered paid J. M. Walton for renewal of the collector's bond.

The township of Whitchurch is almost free from any hospitalization charges at this moment, and an account for $6 settled all outstanding indebtedness as at the end of last month. This shows a splendid health record.

It was announced that a public health clinic will be held for children to administer toxoid against diphtheria, in the Community hall, Vandorf, on Saturday, Oct. 23, beginning at 9 a.m.

PREPARE PARCELS FOR ST. PAUL'S MEN OVERSEAS

The harvest home festival was celebrated at St. Paul's Anglican church last Sunday.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, fruit, vegetables and grain. Little sheaves of oats decorated each seat-end, while each window all down the rows had sprays of green with red berries. The day opened with an early celebration of holy communion at 8 o'clock and continued all day with Rev. C. A. Johnson of Christ church, Brampton, taking the morning service assisted by Rev. R. P. D. Hicks, chaplain of Newmarket military camp, who gave the address at the evening service.

YOU WILL MAKE MONEY

If you are going to have an auction sale, set a date that will make it possible to advertise it thoroughly. You should have a notice of the sale in The Era and Express and in neighboring weeklies. Publishing the full sale list in The Era and Express is more effective and cheaper than having a few posters printed. And whether posters are used or not, the full list can be published advantageously in The Era and Express and other weeklies that are within reasonable travelling distance of the sale.

PUBLIC SCHOOL

resulted from "so many families moving into town." Vice-Chairman Frank Bothwell, who presided in the absence of Rev. J. A. Koffend, now in the R.C.A.F., said that some other children had just moved into town from Aurora and that one of the rooms would have 48 pupils.

The resolution asking the town council for an additional grant passed unanimously.

Following objection from a supply teacher to the payment she had received, and her statement that the rate had not been revised since 1905, the board set the rate at $5 a day.

Mr. Pritchard said that there was justice in her complaint and that after superannuation deductions had been made from her cheque she had received only about $3 a day.

Mr. Pritchard said that in other centres it was customary to pay supply teachers at a higher daily rate than regular teachers because of the uncertainty of their employment.

"I would like to thank the board on behalf of myself and the staff for the splendid letter of encouragement we received at the first of the year," said Principal Jackson.

"It is the first letter of the type I have ever received.

"I have been teaching manual training one day a week," he reported. "So far it has been working out satisfactorily.

"You have already dealt with the matter of the crowded rooms. It is urgent. It is impossible for a teacher with 47 or 48 pupils, in one grade or two grades, to check thoroughly the books of junior pupils and get over the work in the time she should."

Dr. Case suggested the possibility of making the Stuart Scott school a school for senior students "to give them more playgrounds, and leave the King George school for the juniors."

"Would you move the domestic science and manual training away from the Stuart Scott school?" asked Mrs. Edwards.

"No, the nice part of that would be that the senior pupils would be right there for the domestic science and manual training," said Mr. Bovair.

Mr. Bovair spoke of Mr. Koffend's absence. "He has been a very capable chairman," he said.

"He worked hard," said Dr. Case.

Mr. Pritchard said that Mr. Koffend expected to attend the next board meeting and personally tender his resignation. "It will mean electing four board members next year," said Mr. Pritchard.

A resolution was passed, moved by Dr. Case and Mr. Bovair, thanking Mrs. Edwards for arranging the details of the evening in honor of Miss Nellie Holaday, retired principal of the Alexander Muir school.

A letter from Miss Haines thanked the board for the new tables in the primary room at the Alexander Muir school.

Some parents had expressed approval and the opinion that the tables would be the means of better health, she wrote.

The board was informed that O. M. MacKillop, Richmond Hill, is the new inspector for this district in succession to C. A. Lapp, transferred to York No. 5.

POLICE COURT LANDLORD CHOOSES TO SERVE JAIL TERM

Finding William Marks, 20-year-old Camp Borden soldier, guilty of taking a car without the owner's consent, Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe, in Newmarket police court on Tuesday, sentenced him to six months in the Ontario Reformatory.

Three other Camp Borden soldiers, all 19 years of age, jointly charged with Marks, were put on probation for a year. They had spent two weeks in custody.

Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C., consented to withdrawal of charges of theft of an automobile and receiving stolen goods.

Constable Aubrey Fleury said that he and another police officer had been hailed by the youths in the vicinity of Nobleton in King township at midnight on Sept. 13.

They asked for a push for their stalled car. He discovered that the car belonged to Rev. Herbert Hunt, Toronto, and had been reported stolen the previous day.

He said that the plates had been changed.

Whyte, one of the defendants, said that they took the car at Camp Borden, in order to ride to Toronto, knowing it to have been stolen. Marks had "been in trouble before," the magistrate commented in sentencing him.

Pleading guilty to a charge of dangerous driving on the highway in East Gwillimbury on Oct. 2, Geza Csamer, R. R. 2, Newmarket, was fined $20 and costs of $15.50 or 20 days in jail.

Ian Corry, Newmarket taxi driver, said that he had been driving north on the highway in the vicinity of Sharon at about midnight on Oct. 2, when the car driven by Geza Csamer, also going north, pulled out from behind his car in order to pass, and failed to get back into line in time, with the result that it collided with a south-bound car driven by Fred Taylor, Newmarket.

Mr. Taylor said that he had been driving under 30 miles an hour when the defendant's car pulled out from behind the Corry car. He said that Jack Welch, Newmarket, a passenger in his car, had received injuries to his forehead, and that damage to his car amounted to approximately $100.

Constable Joseph Jardine, East Gwillimbury, told his worship that when he arrived at the scene he found the Taylor car "nosed into the ditch." The officer stated that the defendant appeared quite normal.

Geza Csamer admitted that he had been driving at a high rate of speed. He could not account for the accident.

"Mr. Csamer, the boy's father, is a market gardener at the marsh," stated Constable Ronald Watt. "This boy had been driving a truck for his father, who has injured his shoulder. The family need him to take the vegetables to the market and they will be in difficulty if his license to drive is cancelled."

"You will have to stick to the driving of the truck," commented Magistrate Woodliffe when imposing sentence on the youth. "If you drive your private car and the police catch you, your license to drive will be cancelled. You will drive the truck for business only."

Concluding that a collision could have been avoided had Campbell Stone, Blackwater, had his car under proper control, Magistrate Woodliffe dismissed a charge of dangerous driving against John Hadaway, Alton Ave., Toronto.

Mr. Stone said that he had been driving east on the Sutton-Virginia road at 11:30 p.m. on Sept. 25 when the car in front of him, driven by the defendant, made a left-hand turn at an intersection at the same time as he was about to pass him. He said that he did not see Mr. Hadaway signal that he was about to make the turn and admitted that he himself had not sounded his horn. He said that after colliding with the defendant's car his car struck a telegraph pole. He estimated the damage to his car in the vicinity of $400. He said that neither he nor his passenger were seriously injured. He admitted that he had had a pint of beer in Sutton two and a half hours previous to the accident.

Constable George Foster, Georgina township, stated that the defendant was in a normal condition. He said that he could get the odor of beer off Mr. Stone, but that the latter was not under the influence.

Mr. Hadaway told his worship that he was driving at about 20 miles an hour and had slowed down to make the turn when the accident occurred. He said that he had put out his hand to indicate that he was going to make the turn.

"I accept the evidence of the boy that he did put out his hand," stated his worship. "I think that if Mr. Stone had had his car under control there would have been no accident. There was some negligence on the part of the accused but there was also some on the part of the other party. I am going to dismiss the case."

Percy Watson, Thornhill, who was found guilty on two charges of collecting rent in excess of the maximum allowed under the wartime leasehold regulations, was fined $50 and costs or one month in jail on one count and $25 and costs or one month on the second count.

The defendant, who pleaded not guilty to the charges, chose to serve the jail sentences.

Charles Bennington, Newmarket, said that he had previously rented Mr. Watson's house at 33 Niagara St., Newmarket, for $15 a month and had moved when given three months notice to do so by the defendant, who had failed in an attempt to get the permission of the department to raise the rent. He said that he had paid for the electric light and water. He stated that since he moved from the premises little improvement had been made to the house.

Mrs. Muriel Todd, the present tenant, said that she had rented the house for $20 a month.

Mr. Watson told his worship that he had spent considerable money in improvements to the house since the last tenant moved. He valued the improvements at $1,000. He admitted knowing he could not raise the rent.

Testifying on the second charge, Joseph Quinn told his worship that he had been the previous tenant of 35 Niagara St., and had paid Mr. Watson $15 rent. He had to pay his own electric light and water bills.

Peter Kerr, the present tenant, testified that he rented the house from Mr. Watson for $25 a month. He said that he was not required to pay the electric light and water bills.

POLICE COURT

MAGISTRATE CONVICTS ON CHARGE OF THEFT

Magistrate W. E. N. Robinson found Elmer Drury, Cedar Valley, guilty of a charge of theft of articles from Fred Bowser's farm, and suspended sentence on payment of costs, in Newmarket police court on Tuesday.

William Goode testified that he had been at the farm as a hired hand and that he had not given Mr. Drury permission to take any articles. Mr. Drury said that Mr. Goode did give him permission to take certain articles.

Fred Reynolds, a neighbor, denied Mr. Bowser's statement, made at the hearing two weeks ago, that Mr. Drury had taken himself and Mr. Bowser to places where some of the articles were hidden along the roadside.

Frank Bowser, son of Fred Bowser, said that he could not put a valuation on the articles stolen. "I have never even bought a second-hand monkey-wrench in my life," he said.

"Then you wouldn't know whether they were worth 50 cents or four or five dollars?" asked Defence Counsel Charles Evans, Headford.

"No, it's not the value in money of the articles," said Mr. Bowser. "It's that some of those articles are very old and valued as keepsakes. What's four or five dollars to you or me, Charlie?"

"I don't know about that. Mr. Bowser, speak for yourself, not me," joked Mr. Evans.

Frank Bowser said that Mr. Drury had told him that he had taken the articles away each evening on his way home and that he had advised Mr. Drury to put them back.

"I must accept the evidence of Mr. Fred Bowser," stated Magistrate Robinson. "I wasn't impressed with the evidence of either the accused or Mr. Reynolds. I was impressed with the evidence of the complainant's son, Mr. Frank Bowser. In this case the accused should have made sure that the person whom he said had told him to take the articles had the right to tell him to do so. Mr. Goode, whom he says gave them to him, had no authority to do so."

Earl Poole, former reeve of Whitecourt, gave evidence that he had always found Mr. Drury honest. The Magistrate said that he would suspend sentence in view of Mr. Poole's evidence and evidence that the value of the articles (taken was not as high as alleged.
